Design a Reflection Activity Worksheet

Step 1.

Study the Student Reflection Questionnaire. It is one kind of tool you can use or adapt for student reflection and/or self-assessment. You will want your students to be able to answer these questions or similar types of self-assessment questions either in writing or within a group discussion.

Step 2.

Prepare/create a self-assessment activity students might use in reflecting on their service learning activity and their learning as a result of the service. First, determine an age/grade level, a hypothetical service activity and curriculum content area(s). Review examples provided for ideas. You could design journal questions, oral or dialogue questions, or art or performance.
