

Spiderman says,
"I always try my best
to be in my classroom
on time.

When I go do my exercises
I set my timer. It tells me when exercise is over and helps me be back to class on time.
It's important to be back to my classroom on time!!

My teachers are happy when I come back to the classroom on time."

Power Cards

- Power Card Strategy involves including special interests with visual aids to teach and reinforce academic, behavioral and social skills.

When can the Power Card Strategy be used?

- When an individual lacks understanding of expectations
 - To clarify choices
 - To teach cause and effect between a specific behavior and its consequence
 - To teach another's perspective
 - To aid in generalization
 - As a visual reminder of appropriate behavioral expectations of a situation.
-
- Myles, B. S., Trautman, M. L., & Schlevan, R. L. (2006). The Hidden Curriculum: Practical Solutions for Understanding Unstated Rules in Social Situations. Autism Asperger Publishing Company: Shawnee Mission, KS.

Teaching Break and Power Cards

Brett Favre says,
"Man! Sometimes I just need to take a break!"

Sometimes YOU might need a break, too.

I might sit quietly.

I might pump iron.

Other times I might need to walk it off.

Taking a break make me feel better.

Power Card

Brett Favre cheers for me when I remember to take a break.